

Save Time With New Web Fare Upload Tool!

Just in time for the 2010 scheduled fare increases many of Hudson's clients are now preparing for is an enhancement to the web systems' fare upload utility that will save you from minutes to hours! Rather than uploading one fare file at a time, you are now able to select from one to many fare files to upload, and the Web system will queue them for you and then upload and import automatically! For clients that have very large fare files (thousands of locations) or a large number of fare files (more than 5), the upload and import process can take some time.

With the new tool (Web version 2.73), you see the status of your import along with several pieces of information: Upload Request Time, Requested By, File Type, File Name, Airport, Fare Table, Import Status, Record Count, Import Started, Import Complete, Error Message. This data will remain on the website for 2 days after upload, allowing you to log in again and see the recent history and success of your upload(s); helping to prevent duplicate or missed file uploads.

If you don't see this info when you upload YOUR fares, contact Hudson TechSupport for the site upgrade.

FMI ~ For more information on how to upload fares to the web as well as the new enhancement, Please visit the Hudson KnowledgeBase at: <http://kb.hudsonltd.com/article.php?id=422>. The KnowledgeBase can also help you prepare for a fare increase by uploading new fares today that will go into effect, automatically, at a date in the future, specified by you: <http://kb.hudsonltd.com/article.php?id=047>
